

Ergonomic Assessments:

An ergonomic assessment considers the relationship between a person and their work environment. It may take into account physical factors, work systems and other work related processes. We use relevant legislation, codes of practice, standards and current research in ergonomics.