

Permanent Impairment Assessment:

Conduct an objective assessment of an injury, looking at factors such as scarring (size, shape, and pigmentation), range of motion, sensation, and deformity. A report will then be provided to a third party payer to help them determine an amount for a permanent impairment award.