

Work Hardening:

This fully supervised, multi-disciplinary program provides an environment where returning workers rebuild physical ability and psychological self-confidence in order to return to work. Clients participate in gym exercise, and work simulation tasks over a gradually longer day, self-management education classes, and psychological counselling. Work-site visits can be incorporated into the program.